AUSTIN HERE SATURDAY

Second District Congressman will Deliver Lecture at College

At Townsend Monday Night and Walland next Tuesday Night

Congressman R. W. Austin will deliver an illustrated lecture in Voorhees chapel at the college, Saturday night. This lecture will be free. Mr. Austin will exhibit three hundred scenes from the Orient, which he himself made during his recent trip abroad. These pictures will give an insight into the industrial, economic, educational and religious conditions of the peoples of the Philippine Islands, China and Japan.

Mr. Austin will deliver this lecture throughout the second district. This tour is to be made for the purpose of bringing to his constituents some of the things which he saw, heard and felt while in the Orient. He has written series of articles telling of industrial, economic and political conditions of the oriental lands, and these have been given wide publicity in the leading dailies and magazines of the east.

Mr. Austin is an able speaker, and the lecture will be educational as well as entertaining. Everybody is invited.

TOWN SCHOOL GIRLS HAVE TENNIS CLUBS

The girls of the East Side school have interesting and pleasant times together on the tennis court on the school house lawn. The boys have a large ball field, and engage daily in the national sport. The city school buildings have spacious grounds for out-door sports, flower gardens, etc.

Board Of Trade To Number House

If Citizens Do Not Comply With Postal Requirements

Appropriation Also Made For Installing Receptacles

Will you place numerals over your doors and install receptacles, so that Maryville can get free mail delivery?

If you do not, the Board of Trade will do this for you. At its meeting last Thursday night, $50 was appropriated for this purpose, and inspection of houses will be made and where citizens refuse or decline to put up numerals and receptacles, the board will have them placed.

Maryville cannot get free mail delivery until these requirements are met. This may be the last opportunity for several years of getting free delivery, and thus the Board of Trade is going to qualify for the service. Numerals and receptacles cost only a small amount, and every one who is able to own or rent a house is able to buy these, if they will.

An inspector will make a final visit to Maryville in a few days, and will report either favorably or unfavorably as to free delivery. If numerals and receptacles are not found at every house, he will report unfavorably, and it will probably be several years before this delivery opportunity again comes to Maryville.

Dr. R. W. Wells is chairman of the delivery committee. This committee has ordered a large number of 10 cent boxes, which can be used. Other boxes of higher price can be purchased from Crawford, Caldwell & McCammon Co.

Routine work was done by the board. The meeting was largely attended.

HEAVY SNOW ON THE SMOKIES

An unusually heavy snow covered the top of the Smokies near Clingman's Dome last Saturday morning. Mountaineers visiting Elkmont Saturday, brought reports of the snow, Clingman's Dome is 6,000 feet above sea level, and is the highest point in the Smokies. Such heavy snows as that which fell Friday night and Saturday morning, do not usually visit this section so early in the autumn.

Maryville was treated to a heavy frost Saturday morning and also Sunday morning. Coal dealers were kept busy all day Saturday, and special wagons were engaged to haul coal.

Pumpkin Weighing 91 Pounds Raised By Esq. John Poole

A pumpkin weighing 91 pounds now on exhibition in the window of the R. G. McNutt Hardware Co., was raised this season by Squire John Poole, of Meadow. Four other pumpkins, a little smaller than this one, grew on the same vine as the giant pumpkin.

Cades Cove People Discuss Extension Of Pike Into Cove

According to the plan of pike building outlined for the expenditure of the $300,000 bond issue authorized by the county court, the Tuckaleechee pike will be built to the top of Rich Gays

This is within a distance of about four miles of Cades Cove. Realizing the advantages that come from pikes, and knowing the large yields of fruits, grains, etc., that are raised by the farmers of Cades Cove, and the ease with which these products can be hauled to markets over good roads, the enterprising citizens of the cove are discussing the plan to build an extension to the pike into the cove, at their own expense.

Cades Cove is one of the best sections in the county. Because of its inaccessibility, it has long been cut off from other parts of the county, but the people of that region are going to have all advantages of other sections. The new consolidated school building and the grammar school in the cove are proving most successful and helpful to the people.

This concern manufactures a high grade table, and its product is shipped to every part of the globe. Recent heavy shipments have been made to New Orleans and other southern points, from which tables are forwarded to South American.

The Cherokee Manufacturing plant is one of the leading industries of Maryville. It is located on the Sevierville road.

TRAVELING LIBRARIES

Have Been Sent To Sunshine and Cades Cove Citizens

Good Books Furnished Free to Those Anxious To Read

Traveling libraries were sent Saturday to Sunshine and Cades Cove, by Miss Nancy Broady, county superintendent. These libraries are furnished by the state, and afford splendid opportunity for lovers of books and literature to get the best books without cost.

It is believed that there are other traveling libraries in the county, but there is no record of these in the superintendent's office. Miss Broady would like for these to be reported, so that when the people in the communities where they have been circulated are through with them, they can be sent elsewhere.

Congressman Austin Reads The Times in Interior of China

We are in receipt of a picture sent us by Congressman R. W. Austin, in which he was photographed at Hankow, China, while reading the Maryville Times. The paper's heading can be easily read. The congressman was looking at the back of the paper, and the front page, with a picture of a view near Maryville, is photographed. In Mr. Austin's party, and photographed with him, were Mrs. Austin, his daughter, Miss Jane Austin; Consul Edwin Cunningham and Mrs. Cunningham, and the daughter of a Virginia congressman, who accompanied them.

Congressman Austin reads The Times weekly, and said he was gratified at the splendid paper we are publishing, asserting that it was one of the best weeklies printed in Tennessee.

Waterworks For $20 Easy For Farmers

Here's One Farmer and Wife Who Formerly Carried All Water Up Hill About Four Rods

With Small Expenditure They Now Have Running Water In Their House

About five years ago I read in some farm paper about home waterworks—how a small hydraulic ram could furnish plenty of water at small outlay. Up to this time we (my wife and I) had been contented to get our water with buckets from a spring down a small hill about four rods away. It was my practice to bring two 14-quart buckets morning and noon, and what was needed at night. This was quite a task, especially noon and night, when a man comes in from the fields hot and tired.

I read everything I could get on how to put water in the home. After measuring the flow of water from the spring I found we could use a ram which would give us all water needed. I wrote some houses for prices on rams, necessary fixtures, piping, etc. I was surprised to find we could get water into the house for less than $20. We decided to order one immediately, with everything necessary, such as extra couplings, elbows, etc.

When ready to put down the ram I read carefully the directions given in the catalog, got the use of my neighbor's pipe wrenches, and his help a few hours, and soon had it all connected up. For a tank we bought a cider barrel and placed it in the garret over the kitchen, and attached the necessary overflow pipes leading to the chicken yard and wash house. One pipe was run into the kitchen. We now had our waterworks going—360 gallons in 24 hours.

When figured up, it all cost less than $20. We were delighted with its success. That little ram furnished water for the kitchen, washing and chickens, and much more than was needed. There was no more climbing up the hill with two buckets and tired legs three times a day. My wife was delighted with its convenience, and I felt its saving of the energy that was necessary in climbing the steep grade each time water was needed.

We now have a No. 5 ram attached to an artesian well of a neighbor's, and get the purest water in great quantities. We have it in all parts of the house where wanted and expect soon to have it piped to the fields for the stock.—C. D. Haverty, in The Progressive Farmer.

COUNTY TRUCK WORKS WELL

The new truck bought by the Blount county court to be used in repairing the pikes, has been doing good service for the past few days, and many worn places which have been the terrors of autoists have been repaired, and the pikes put in good condition. The truck has proved very satisfactory to the officials of the county. The work of repairing the roads will be extended to every part of the county in which the pikes have been built.

MOONLIGHT SCHOOLS

Suggested That Such Be Established in Blount County

Are Successfully Conducted In Other Counties Of State

Moonlight schools for Blount county is the latest suggestion in educational circles. Such schools are conducted very successfully in other counties of East Tennessee. The need for such schools in every county is manifest, and good results are sure to accrue from such institutions. The schools are conducted at night, in the county's school buildings, and are in charge of the county teachers. No additional expense comes from the operation of these schools. Teacher in sections needing such schools, as a rule, are glad of the opportunity to assist men and women by teaching a few hours at night. These schools are planned for those who do not know how to read or write or figure, but who are anxious to learn these things. Many men and women who were deprived of school advantages and whose knowledge of books and literature is meager, would be glad of this opportunity of training.

The plan for Blount county has not yet been worked out. In fact, the suggestion has just recently been made, but educational leaders are investigating the advisability of inaugurating such schools, and it is hoped the plans will be consummated and schools established for those who want to attend.

Royal Arch Masons To Meet October 23

A called meeting of the Royal Arch Masons will be held Saturday night, Oct. 23, to do Mark Master Work.

Rev. John Sanders Ends Labors Here

Rev. John Sanders, pastor of Maryville circuit, M. E. church, does not expect to be returned to this pastorate next year. Rev. Mr. Sanders has had a most successful seven years' pastorate, but feels that he has done his work here, and will go to another appointment next year.

Teachers' Meeting Was Well Attended

The monthly meeting of the county teachers held last Saturday, was well attended. By-laws and constitutions were adopted, and the organization completed. These meetings are proving very helpful to the teachers. Prof. H. L. Ellis, of the college, is conducting a teachers' reading course. Miss Nellie Cooper, of the East Tennessee State Normal school at Johnson City, was present and lectured to the teachers on methods of teaching. The teachers received their monthly salaries.
